About Jammu & Kashmir State

As the couplet by the famous Persian poet 'Amir Khusru' about Jammu & Kashmir "If there is a paradise on earth, it is here, it is here, it is here"

The Jammu & Kashmir is a northern most state in India. It is a large state and was ruled by a Maharaja (Indian King) in the past. Jammu & Kashmir is made up of three main regions but is called Jammu & Kashmir because the two most populous regions in the state are 'Jammu' and 'Kashmir', the other region being Ladakh.

About the city of Jammu

Jammu derives its name from its ruler Raja (king) Jambulochan who lived in fourteenth century B.C. The city of Jammu which besides being the winter capital of the state, is known as the 'city of temples'. Jammu is situated on a hillock, on the bank of river Tawi and is bound by Udhampur district in the north and northeast, Kathua district in the east and southeast, Pakistan (Sialkot) in west and Rajouri district and POK (Bhimber) in the northwest. Its skyline was once dotted with glittering spires of temples. These spikes are no longer visible as most of these are hidden behind multi storeyed buildings. The city has numerous shrines for Muslims, Sikhs & Christians also. Jammu also serves as base camp for the holy shrine of Vaishno Devi. Jammu is also the Railhead of the state.

Geographical Location

Jammu is located 74 degrees 24' and 75 degrees 18', East longitude and 32 degrees 50' and 33 degrees 30' North latitude. It is approximately 600 Kms away from National Capital, New Delhi and is connected with Air, Train and Road link.

Climate

The temperature varies from cold in winter with minimum temperature touching even 0.9 degree Centigrade to heat wave in summers when the temperature shoots up to 46 degrees centigrade. Jammu District is spread over an area of 3097 Sq. Kms and has a population of about 15.88 lakhs as per the estimates of 2001.
